

Creating a Project Website (1610-40): Summary

To summarize this lesson, here are the objectives that we have covered. You have accessed, logged into and navigated around the Back Office application, and we have created our project website. We have used the text editor to add additional information to our website. We added the PDF and interactive document, which allowed us to also create a comment period for the public to add comments.

Keep in mind that at this moment the text editor is just limited to text, adding images to the text editor on your project website will be possible later. Also remember that the website you are setting up is what the public will see. When you are developing that website, please remember that the public will use the site heavily, and that you should avoid using excessive jargon and acronyms.

If you need additional assistance with this, feel free to contact the ePlanning Team. Our contact information can be found through the ePlanning website. Thank you.
