

PRESENTER: Hello, everyone. This is Michael with the e-planning team. And today, we're going to be discussing how to navigate the NEPA register. The following video will show you how to navigate to the nationwide NEPA and LUP registers. This is where all the projects are stored, giving you a centralized one stop shop for finding all NEPA and LUP projects.

First, you need to get to the NEPA register. You can go to <https://eplanning.blm.gov/>, and it will take you to the National NEPA register. Or another way to find it quickly and easily is to go to Google search and type in NEPA register, and then click on the BLM e-planning Bureau of Land Management.

Now, we'll be going to a demo. Once you are in the NEPA register, you will see a search by section. Here, you can search by state, office, type of document, program, and year. For example, you can select Colorado, and then fiscal year 2020, and click Search. The list will appear on the left hand side. And on the right, you will see the location map. You can click the project name in blue, and it will take you to the website. To go back to the home page, you will click the home icon, or you can click New Search.

You can also search by showing only projects that are in the participation periods and show only active projects, which will be checked as default. There will also be another search bar which can search by NEPA number, project name, and document name. By clicking the dropdown area, you'll enable the advanced search, which has general info, location, and other info, plus dates.

As you scroll down, you can see the Welcome section, which has a Links tab, Planning tab, and a Finding BLM Office tab. Moving further down, you can see the Most Active Participation Periods section. Here, you can see the top participation periods on the NEPA register and participate in them by clicking to Participate Now button. Instructions on how to participate are in the how to participate on the NEPA register video. Below that, you can also see what participation periods that will be ending soon.

Thank you for watching. And please remember, if you have any additional
