

With that, Donna, let's take a break for this brief message.

Do you need extra cash, improved job skills, or career change?

Before pursuing any job opportunities, you may be required to obtain prior written approval from your designated ethics counselor to engage in outside work or activity.

Please be mindful that although you are not prohibited from seeking nonfederal employment, you may not perform official duties on matters involving persons, including companies with whom you are actively seeking nonfederal employment.

18 U.S.C. 208 prohibits federal employees from officially working on particular matters that have a direct and predictable effect on an organization with which they are negotiating prospective employment.
