

Now on a lighter note we've compiled our top 10 -- compiled our top 10 list of ethics excuses.

Here are the top 10 excuses heard by an ethics official when discussing a possible ethics violation.

Number 10, the devil made me do it.

Number nine, we're all a part of the same team.

Number eight, who is going to find out?

Number seven, nobody really cares.

Number six, I won't be influenced.

Number five, I thought it would be all right.

Number four, it's only a little bit over the $20 gift exception.

Number three, we're friends.

Number two, nothing is going to be done anyway.

And our number one top excuse heard by an ethics official,
this is how we've always done it.
